JURISDICTION

A credit Card that was in the name of Danielle Biton and whom everyone stole identity from VAL Continental to Terrorists Ameen Meer, Kathleen Alexander, et al was used illegally and fraudulently in order to steal HSBC Bank account from Crystal Biton. 9/11/2001 stocks were illegally exchanged for blood monies and the id of each of plaintiffs were wiped out so that computer hijackers could electronically cash life insurances. Thru the Board of Trustees here in Newark, NJ from the PORT AUTHORITY have made illegal long arms transactions to assets, bank accounts, real estates belonging to Saphyre Redford aka CRYSTAL BITON. Thru the Board of Trustees here in Newark, NJ for Fidelity, Insurances were illegally cashed by falsifying signatures of Chaelene, Danielle, and Crystal. Thru the Board of Trustees of Continental Mngmnt, VAL Continental, Aventura, Sunny Isles, Middleburg, Baltimore et al have illegally cashed insurances belonging to Crystal Biton. Thru the bad faith actions of Morgan Melhuish Abertyn, together with Bakalar Assoc, et al, Plaintiffs have been robbed from NJ to NY to Va to FL to London to Israel.

CAUSE OF ACTION

Plaintiffs livelihood, reputations, privacy, rights to life, liberty, and happiness as well as the rights to FREEDOM OF INFORMATION have been seriously denied to us due to breach of security bank of America Military Trial, computer hackers stealing Plaintiffs identity, and thus creating a dangerous pipeline that have seriously placed our health, life, and safety in harm's way. Never and at no time did credit card companies reveal how unfair trade practices have been allowed in order to cover up for breaches of security, greymail of 9/11/2001, greymail of 19 Oct 2005, greymail of Chief Judge Loretta Preska together with Federal Judges from Eastern District of NY, Southern District of Florida, Unified Court System of NY, and FBI protecting bloody murderers from AL Qaeda to Ameena Meer to Ed Dereck et al, while innocent Plaintiffs have never been noticed. NO MORE!

DEMAND

We request a trial by jury to demand how acts of terrorism together with hijackers in Government who allowed all of this to happen without never noticing neither my family and I and we refuse to have illegal sanctions and penalties placed on us.

We are victims and we demand Justice. NO MORE!
We demand to have a Judge who cannot be corrupted and who will hold Media Network terrorists Muslims as well as US Government accountable for violating our rights to FREEDOM OF INFORMATION.

We demand our rights to due process
We demand our rights to equal protection which was never afforded to us by conspiracy between states et al.

We maintain that we registered the name TriBeCa.net in 1995, six years before they ever existed. That as thirty plus year residents of TriBeCa, WE WERE HERE FIRST! That this is an attempt to bully us into giving up the community that we've worked hard to develop and the name we thought of long before there was a Film Festival.

The Film Festival folks seem to covet our success. In the six months since we've been out of Beta, we've attracted over 45,000 unique viewers. We've displayed over 900,000 pages. We've gone from an Alexa rating of 2,500,000th most popular site to under 30,000. We've grown steadily and rapidly. Compare that to Tribeca Film festival's site which is the 283,218th most popular site. Wonder why they want our site?

We're free, popular and growing. We intend to stay that way. We'll continue to help people find their voice and let the world judge. We are the spirit of Tribeca. A spirit that is supportive, attentive and most definitely dedicated to community.

But just to assure the Film Festival folks: we have never shown a feature film - and - we never will.

view of Muslim countries, according to a CNN national opinion poll in June. That's up five percent from 2001.

ered it this June, the audience was an entire world of 1.2 billion Muslims who feel blighted by perceived American fear and prejudice.

● I traveled to Turkey and the United Arab Emirates this summer. The view about Obama on the street is positive, but the Middle Eastern people have historically been conditioned not to trust U.S. leadership.

● A BRIGHT IDEA: "Pitching

for the creation of a Palestinian state will reduce the threat of terrorism. Many Muslims identify themselves with the plight of the Palestinians."

LOVERS? CURENTAROUND A CURE
tions misunderstanding has fueled a breakdown in communication between two polar opposite worlds. Obama has made lofty promises to re-engage America with the Middle East. But eight years later, are we any closer to a reconciliation? Methu asked a panel of foreign policy experts to weigh in.

● "I find it interesting that their primary address is to IDBans' Carol address in the Arab press was, 'This is great talk, but where's the action?' ... If reasons means feeling it is little to be gained from talk many, but they include a deep democracy itself in which leaders far more responsive to their put-backs. ... All leaders are socialized by power, and Obama is no exception."

gloves, haremongering diffused while Islamophobia still remained.

"In a large sense, with President Obama in office, it's starting to get better; I believe it'll take a while though before all the masses see Muslims as people pushing for a slightly more pious road and not a threat."

AMEENA MEER,

It was difficult being a Muslim in the U.S. even before 9/11. But it was more like being any minority — you were just weird. More often than not, people had no real idea of what a Muslim was.

"After 9/11, as a Muslim, at-tor friend of mine said, 'Every time you meet someone, you say 'Don't worry, you're cool. I left the bombs in the back of the car.' Telling someone you were Muslim was like telling them you had a loaded gun in your pocket.
 People would turn pale.
 "Eight years on, the level of aggression is less. But the anti-Muslim sentiment seems to be growing worse as we become more visible as a community. I've heard women in the locker room at the pool talking about Muslims and how one should stay away from them. ... The flip side is that Islam has become so much more visible. People seem to know more about Islam."

Muslims, however, are not just victims, because they are not only victims, but they are also the ones who are responsible for the attacks.

And, just two years ago, Meier was falsely stereotyped as a work meeting when a co-worker suggested "Muslim-baiting" with Muslims that are arrested," said Meier.

Can not a Muslim and I'm not against Israel. Everybody sort of looked at me, and the whole room went quiet.

The xenophobia also and other Muslims have experienced, Meier said, is amplified. "Having immigrants in the U.S. makes us more able to compete in the global marketplace," said Meier.

"It's just ignorance — nothing else," said Lena Alhusseini, a Muslim immigrant from Jerusalem who has lived in Battery Park City for five years.

Though she hasn't personally experienced racism, Alhusseini felt slighted by the streams of protesters gathered at Park Place for demonstrations against the Park's Islamic community center last year.

Protesters at the Islamic Center of New York City, 2010. The Islamic Center of New York City is a mosque and community center located in Lower Manhattan. It was the target of a series of protests and demonstrations in 2010 and 2011, led by the Islamic Society of America (ISA) and other groups. The protests were fueled by rumors that the center was a front for terrorism and that it was a threat to national security. The ISA and other groups claimed that the center was a front for terrorism and that it was a threat to national security. They also claimed that the center was a front for terrorism and that it was a threat to national security.
